2. [REDACTED] has been functioning as a programmer within An/ORD since the completion of his initial training as a programmer in May 1968. In this capacity, he has written several computer programs in support of An/ORD objectives. He has the major responsibility for technical interface with the TDMS system and other portions of the [REDACTED] package, as well as control of all system and user documentation. [REDACTED] is the staff expert on the high level language PL/1 and has been tasked with the support of the operating system maintenance function. He has recently completed a series of programs designed to exercise the capabilities of new, lower cost, magnetic tape units. He has also implemented on the IPRD computer the Conversational Programming System (CPS), which enables the use of the PL/1 and BASIC languages from CRT and typewriter terminals.
